

VIR Inspection Test and Type for OBDII

March 13, 2015

Some counties notified the department that customers were providing Vehicle Inspection Reports (VIR) with a test type of "OBDII." "OBDII" is not seen on the Registration and Title System (RTS) screen number INS001 when manually verifying inspection, nor is it displayed in webDEALER or WebSub.

Emission inspections conducted prior to March 1 received a VIR that was formatted differently than the current VIR. If you receive a VIR with a test date before March 1, 2015, and "OBDII" as the "Test and Type," please go to mytxcar.org and enter the full VIN to query for the vehicle inspection record. After you query the VIN, you will see a results page. The correct inspection type is shown next to "Reg Fee Code" in the top right-hand side of the results page.

Emission inspections conducted March 1, 2015, or later may also show "OBDII," but will display an inspection type available on RTS screen number INS001. The inspection type on this VIR will be bolded.

Please share this information with your local motor vehicle dealers and county subcontractors.

Thank you for your continued support and patience during the implementation of the single sticker program. If you have additional technical questions, please contact the RTS help desk.
